BEFORE

This cookie-cutter room lacked colour and texture, and there was no focal point.

Accessorize!

Use a combination of drapes, throw cushions, bolsters, throws, spreads and area rugs to add lush layers, soften up the overall look – and muffle sounds in echoey condos. Accessories also create a mood that's both practical and luxurious. An open-backed chair lets light in while taking up less visual space.

TIP: When choosing a floor rug, make sure it's large enough to extend past the sides and end of the bed.

BEFORE
Vertical blinds looked generic. A massive chair felt out of scale and too masculine.

Install dimmers.

Vary your lighting to create an intimate, sophisticated space. Place the main overhead light on a dimmer to make changing the mood easy. Then add wall sconces or table lamps on either side of the bed for late-night reading. Complete the look with a lamp on the dresser.

Mismatch your night tables.

Take your time to find just the right piece of furniture, rather than buying an entire bedroom set all at once. Instead of looking like a showroom, your bedroom will feel like a true reflection of your personality.
